Valiant for Truth

*I have fought the good fight, I have finished the race,
I have kept the faith – 2 Tim. 4:7*

Most Christians, even those who identify as Reformed, have little to no knowledge of Dr. J. Gresham Machen. This is unfortunate. Eighty-nine years ago, January 1, 1937, Machen died and the church lost one of its most courageous and articulate defenders of biblical Christianity. Though he passed away at only 55 years old, what he was able to accomplish in his short life has had a lasting influence upon the church.

J. Gresham Machen was born on July 28, 1881 in Baltimore, Maryland. Raised in a Christian home, his academic journey took him through John Hopkins University, Princeton Theological Seminary, and further studies in Germany. Though he was a brilliant scholar who was fluent in Greek and a master of New Testament studies, theology was never just an academic exercise. It was doctrine for life and truth worth defending.

Machen taught New Testament at Princeton Seminary from 1909 until 1929. When liberal theology gained a stronghold in Princeton and began eroding the seminary's historic commitments to biblical truth, Machen left Princeton and helped found Westminster Theological Seminary in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. He served at Westminster Seminary until his death.

J. Gresham Machen is best remembered for his unwavering stand against the theological modernism of his day that sought to undermine biblical Christianity by removing the supernatural and redefining core doctrines of the Christian faith. Machen rightly understood that if the church surrendered the authority of Scripture, it would lose the gospel itself.

In 1923, to combat the encroaching influence of liberal theology in the church, he wrote the book Christianity and Liberalism that, to this day, is one of the clearest explanations of why the church must hold fast to the faith once delivered to the saints. Machen argued that liberalism was not another form of Christianity but a different religion altogether.

His firm stand for biblical truth eventually led the Presbyterian Church USA, the denomination in which he held his ordination, to remove him from ministry. Their liberalism could no longer tolerate a man like J. Gresham Machen who refused to compromise biblical truth. This led Machen, and other likeminded believers, to form a new denomination called the Orthodox Presbyterian Church (OPC) on June 11, 1936.

In December of 1936, J. Gresham Machen, who at this point was physically exhausted from all of his spiritual battles, traveled to North Dakota to support a small struggling congregation who had joined with the OPC. There, in the bitter cold, he contracted pneumonia. On January 1, 1937 he breathed his last and entered the presence of the Lord he had so faithfully served.

Shortly before he died, he sent a telegram to a colleague at Westminster Theological Seminary that simply read: "I'm so thankful for the active obedience of Christ. No hope without it." It was a fitting summary of his life's message: salvation is entirely the work of Christ.

J. Gresham Machen lived only 55 years but his stand for biblical truth continues to this day through the work of Westminster Theological Seminary, he helped to found, through the Orthodox Presbyterian Church, he and others started, and through his many books that remain in print and continue to edify and instruct those who read them.

J. Gresham Machen was a man valiant for the truth. He would not tolerate liberalism in the church even when it cost him personally to stand for Christ and the gospel. For liberalism is not another form of Christianity, it is an altogether different religion that has no power to save.

Though Machen is no longer with us today, his legacy is still deeply relevant. For the church of Christ continues to face pressure, both from within and without, to conform to cultural expectations and not the Bible. Let us, therefore, like him, resist all pressure to compromise biblical truth and stand fast in the faith given once for all, even if we must stand alone.

“Looking to Christ: The Book of Hebrews”
by Marci Ogrosky

Marci is a pastors wife, Mom, and has a degree from Reformed Theological Seminary in Special Education. She is a down to earth writer that we have enjoyed learning from. Hebrews has 13 chapters, and encouragement is the heart of the books purpose. Jesus sanctifies us for the true worship of God, so that we draw nearer to heaven.

Please join us on the second Tuesday every month at 10am at Grace. I think you will enjoy Bible study, prayer, and fellowship with loving Christian women. Bring a friend if you like. If you have any questions, please call Marsha Allison.

Pennies for Missions

Just a reminder that the WIC is still collecting pennies for our missionaries! If you have any spare change that you’ve been looking to get rid of, feel free to drop it in the container in the Foyer or in the Sunday School Rooms.

Grace Notes

Christ-like Humility for the New Year

“Do nothing from selfish ambition or conceit, but in humility count others more significant than yourselves. Let each of you look not only to his own interests, but also to the interests of others.

Have this mind among yourselves, which is yours in Christ Jesus, who, though he was in the form of God, did not count equality with God a thing to be grasped, but emptied himself, by taking the form of a servant, being born in the likeness of men. And being found in human form, he humbled himself by becoming obedient to the point of death, even death on a cross.

Therefore God has highly exalted him and bestowed on him the name that is above every name, so that at the name of Jesus every knee should bow, in heaven and on earth and under the earth, and every tongue confess that Jesus Christ is Lord, to the glory of God the Father.”
